

BUSINESS OF HOME

PRODUCT PREVIEW | APR 1, 2022 |

Memorable debuts from Zachary Frankel, Brigette Romanek for Mitchell Gold + Bob Williams and more

By Caroline Biggs

It's shaping up to be a busy weekend for design lovers. High Point Spring Market kicks off today, and a slew of noteworthy brands have launched fresh collections just as the industry flocks to North Carolina. From handdrawn ceramic vases to stools crafted from recycled plastics, here are some highlights to peruse on the plane.

The Arc stools by Zachary Frankel for the "Tessellate" exhibit with Mikaela Stafford Charlie Hawks

The Rima sconce in whitewashed oak by Cerno Courtesy of Cerno

Aliso Viejo, California–based lighting studio Cerno introduced the Rima sconce. Available in a variety of solid wood and metal finishes, including oak, walnut, brass, nickel and bronze, the streamlined design comes clad in a sleek minimalist shade that measures a mere 7 inches wide—so you can maximize even the smallest sliver of wall space.