

13 New Products from ICFE, BDNV, and NeoCon

After a year away from trade fairs, manufacturers are putting forward their best.

Manufacturers heading back to in-person events are taking pains to roll out only those products that truly demonstrate that they understand the new ways we work. Products this year are distinguished by soothing colors, a home-to-office connection, easy assembly and reconfiguration, and inherent COVID-fighting features. BuzziCee, a line of C-shaped lounge seating, checks several of those boxes. Besides serving a dual function as an acoustic element (it provides noise reduction at 4.5 Sabins of absorption), its modular nature makes it easy to arrange for distancing. Read on for what other products were designed to impress at this year's NeoCon furniture fair in Chicago and during the International Contemporary Furniture Fair (ICFF) and Boutique Design (BDNY) shows in New York City

CREO

Debuting at ICFF, this six-pound handcrafted terra-cotta sconce by ceramicists Scott and Naomi Schoenherr elevates its earthy material and updates the typical profile of corridor lighting fixtures. CERNO cernogroup.com
