

SPACES

5 New American-Made Decor Pieces, by Milo Baughman, Blu Dot & More: Fourth of July Never Looked So Good

The U.S.A.'s tradition of furniture design and manufacturing is alive and well—and looking good. Check out these collectors' items, custom pieces and classics in the making.

Amicus by Cerno

Photo courtesy of Cerno

Designer Nick Sheridan, along with his friends Bret Englander and Dan Wacholder, founded Cerno more than 10 years ago with a commitment to design and build original light fixtures in California. The company is well known for its architectural lighting pieces that celebrate wood. Amicus is a bit of a departure, as its starring feature is a perforated metal shade inspired by Sheridan's pre-pandemic travels through Morocco. Starts at $950. Available at Cerno, YLighting.com, Lightology.com, Lamps Plus, and Lumens.